WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

By Sen. George Smathers

WASHINGTON — For the second time in less than a year, I have found myself in a minority in the senate, voting against a treaty. On July 15, I voted with 14 other senators against the Status of Forces treaty because I did not think it right to send American boys in uniform abroad and deprive them of the same Constitutional rights and protections they had at home.

The other night I was one of six senators who voted against the Mutual Defense Treaty with Korea. My vote was not a reflection upon the courageous people of Korea or our willingness to assist them in their struggle. It rather was directed at our State Department who in these unilateral treaties in Asia do not get for the U.S.A. a 50-50 break and who continue this one-way street of assistance.

In Europe, we have a mutual defense pact which binds all the signors to assist any of the others if attacked in Asia, we have treaties with Japan, Philippines, New Zealand, Australia, and Korea; and Pakistan is next.

Each of these treaties commits the United States to go to the assistance of these countries. Yet none of the treaties obligates these countries to help us to help the country which may be under attack. There is no obligation, for instance, for South Korea to help up in defending the Philippines.

We have long since passed the time when we have enough of either manpower or resources to go all over the European continent as well as Asia fighting to assist individual countries which may be attacked.

Another major reason for voting against this treaty is that there is no practical limit in time, amount, or conditions under which we would help Korea. We are now involved in starting a precedent which some day we may regret.

NEWS NOTES OFF THE CUFF: Final agreement of the ship bill giving the shipyard bill giving the shipyard instead of the hoped-for, new federal district judge . . . Have many fine letters in approval of my vote for joining Canada in the St. Lawrence seaway project which had substantial support in Florida, although the area is remote from our own commerce, because many citizens and groups recognize the country's need. Abney Cox, chairman of flood control district and Engineer Turner Wallis already have been up to lay groundwork for a later appeal for adequate appropriations for Florida's big project. Have asked Federal Trade Commission to investigate high price of coffee for unfair trade prices.

LOCAL FFA BOYS TO ATTEND TAMPALAW FAIR

Five members of the Pahokee chapter of the Future Farmers of America leave today as a beef and dairy judging team at the Florida State Fair in Tampa.

Attending the fair with R. L. Brooks, chapter advisor, will be Val Gabaldon, Harry Brooks, Elbarbe, Leon Beede, Alfred Kharb, and Fred Blakey.

P.O. Route Seen As Possible

Home mail delivery may now be possible for Pahokee, Postmaster E. A. Jensen indicated yesterday following a Chamber of Commerce announcement earlier in the week that the C of C would push for free mail delivery.

Jensen said he believes that Pahokee may now meet the postal department's requirements for such a service.

Support in the form of a letter from the various organizations in town would be of considerable help in getting home delivery, Jensen said, and would indicate the preference of the majority.

Early Objections One of the earlier objections to door-to-door delivery of mail, in the two previous tries for home delivery, was that downtown merchants might be affected adversely if people no longer came to the Post Office to pick up their mail.

Since the Post Office moved, business hasn't changed appreciably around the former location, Jensen believes, so perhaps there would be no merchant objection this time.

First try for home delivery in Pahokee was in 1943, when the postal inspector recommended one carrier route. The request was disapproved because the department was not setting up any carrier deliveries.

The second try was in 1951, in a movement started by the Rotary club. The local business houses' objections knocked that effort flat.

The C of C, in its monthly board meeting Monday night, asked President Leonard Dobrow to confer with Jensen to see what procedure should be followed to obtain the service.

Other Actions In other actions, the Chamber VOTED to include Canal Point in its revised 1954 brochure.

RECORDED its objections to missing the name "Chamber of Commerce," as is being done by real estate firms in several coastal towns.

REVIEWED its solicitation control program and decided to see how much of it is covered by the city ordinance on solicitation.

HEARD the report of Secretary Bertha Orr on the all-state C of C meeting in Orlando last week.

DISCUSSED the advantages of local merchants joining the Florida Independent Grocers Association, to buy merchandise at the same prices as chain stores.

NAMED Lewis Friend and Julius Moon to investigate why budgeted county funds haven't been used to improve the Bacom Point airport, which would be used for the airshow which was proposed last week by the Lions Club.

INTER-CITY MEET FOR ROTARIANS

Pahokee Rotarians will attend the inter-city club meeting at Belle Glade next Friday night, Feb. 12, President O. B. McClure has announced.

Paul Lovejoy, secretary of Rotary, will be the speaker.

"Stopping Half-Way at What We Ought to Be" was the subject of a talk given by Dr. Henry A. Guy, guest speaker of the Rotary meeting last week.

He pointed out that most people make use of only half of their God-given innate abilities.

The club adopted the Pahokee Chamber of Commerce's resolution recommending that the Lake Okechobee levee be named after former President Herbert Hoover.

W. J. Adams was granted a leave of absence because of illness. It was announced that Edwin F. Travor of Key West, Rotary District Governor, will make his first visit here on Feb. 25, at noon, and will preside at an assembly of Rotarians at the Woman's Club building at 5 p.m.

Guests included Rama R. Panjive, Coimbatore, India; E. A. Miller, Pittsburgh, Pa.; A. N. Miller, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Herbert Beck, George A. Young, W. B. Hooker and James A. Ball, Rotarians of Belle Glade, and Edgar Elliott.

The ailments of Everglades Memorial Hospital—a shortage of paying patients and a deficit—and a possible remedy were explained and discussed by Administrator Harry Weir this week.

Speaking at the Pahokee Lions Club Tuesday luncheon meeting, Weir used a blackboard and chalk to illustrate the hard facts about the hospital's costs and need for patients.

Every hospital dollar, he said, is broken down into these costs by the penny: 34 cents for nursing services; 20 cents for administration; 11 cents, housekeeping; 11 cents, diet; six cents each for plant operation, X-ray and laboratory, and operating room.

pharmaceuticals, three cents for pharmacy, and two cents for medicine and supplies.

The hospital provides three employees per patient or one person's time around the clock, plus material, or an overall cost of $1.31 per hour per patient to the hospital.

On the other hand, the average charge to the patient per hour is 63 cents, Weir said.

The average per day cost to the hospital is $36 per patient, but the average daily charge at the hospital is $15 per patient, the administrator said. That makes the average deficit per patient $21 per day, Weir said.

Must Have Patients Everglades Memorial Hospital, like any hospital in any part of the country, must have patients to keep operating, and those patients must come from the doctors, Weir pointed out.

The more patients paying their way (and good hospitalization plans ease the patient's financial burden, Weir noted), the less the deficit for the hospital, and ultimately the less tax support it will need.

"Everglades Memorial Hospital has a 1400 patient day potential a month; it is using only 200 of them," the administrator said, pointing out that more local use of the hospital is an urgent need. A 600 patient day load could be handled with its present staff which alone would greatly reduce the deficit, Weir added. The present staff is required for 24-hour hospital operation.

"Appalling" He said it was "appalling" that an area of the size covered by the hospital gave so few patients to the local institution.

"It is your hospital; you know what it needs and what can be done about it. What are you going to do?" Weir concluded.

Answering questions following his talk, the administrator said that he would be glad to notify Blue Cross in West Palm Beach of any local persons desiring to investigate pre-paid hospital care. He replied in an emphatic affirmative when asked whether the required deposits at the hospital had helped the financial system.

"Our accounts receivable are cut down 50 to 60 per cent compared to 18 months ago," he said.

POLITICAL LINES ARE DRAWN

HOWELL

A "direct personal interest in the schools of Palm Beach County for the next 18 years" is the reason Thurmond Knight, Pahokee real estate dealer and cattleman, has filed as a candidate opposing Incumbent A. Q. Howell for the school board this year, he said this week.

Knight said his young children will be in school in the county over that period in the future. This is his first political venture.

Knight is a resident of the county for 40 years, 37 of them in the Glades.

Knight is an organizer, director, and secretary-treasurer of the Everglades Growers Cooperative, and has the same position in the Glades Livestock Market Association. A graduate of Canal Point high school, Knight attended Massey Business College, Jacksonville, and Stetson University.

He is a member of the Pahokee Baptist Church, where he teaches a class of 12 year old boys. He is a past president of the Pahokee Rotary Club, and a member with 22 years' present attendance. He also is a member of the Pahokee PTA, the Masonic Lodge, Eastern Star, Elks Lodge, Lake Worth Consistory, Pahokee Chamber of Commerce, Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce, Palm Beach County Farm Bureau, and a past president of the PTA.

Two other men have retired under the accumulated service plan. They include Capt. H. C. Martin, Lakeland, former chief enforcement officer, and Sgt. J. M. Tapscott, West Palm Beach.

Tri-City Group Has Meeting

The tri-city board of trustees of Port Mayaca Cemetery is finally to hear whether additional land is to be made available at the cemetery, its members heard at their February meeting this week.

Word is expected soon from Bessie's Properties, with whom the board has been negotiating for additional land.

Another 95 grave spaces for whites has recently been opened at the cemetery, and a small additional plot has been opened in the Negro area. W. Taylor, Belle Glade, and Eulis Wright of Pahokee headed a Negro delegation which appeared at the meeting to ask for urgently-needed additional space.

Commissioners Walter Ashley, Belle Glade; Louis F. Mims, Pahokee; and S. J. Fisher, South Bay, heard a financial report from Secretary Dorothy Graham: As of Feb. 1, total cemetery income was $1,925.25; total disbursements, $971.74, and balance on hand, $532.14.

Danger of rabies in the Pahokee - Canal Point area was cut down by 155 dogs who have been inoculated in Pahokee's drive against strays the past three weeks, city officials said this week.

Within the city limits of Pahokee, 139 dogs have been inoculated, and more than 30 untagged dogs have been picked up and taken to the city dog pound.

Local residents who did not have their dogs inoculated at the dog "clinic," where the rate is $1.50 instead of the regular $2 per dog, Veterinarian Clarence Kidd will be available Saturday at 10 a.m. at Belle Glade City Hall.

Belle Glade's Mayor, Eulis Wright, said this week started its own war against stray, unlicensed dogs.

I think I've finally found out what's in a name.

And, as is the case so often, I found out at City Hall.

The ladies of the City Clerk's office, Mrs. C. Graham, Mr. Brown, and Miss Batchelor, are all great pet fanciers themselves, so they were doubly stricken with fascination at some of the dog names around town.

Each one of us properly licensed dogs sees one of these ladies to get our tags, and you should see their faces as we bark our names.

They laughed when I sat down to spell mine out — but I leveled a slobber paw at them and said at least I'm not "Did He Bite."

They allowed as how that was a fact.

Their dog registration records show "Did He Bite," a brown cocker spaniel, is duly tagged for 1954.

As are "Stocking Foot," "Cola Brown," "Spoodles," and "Black Diamond."

It is also a fact that there are more dogs named "Brownie" in this area than any other name. There are considerable Blackies, in runner-up position.

Some of the names are quite descriptive, such as Beauty, Tiny, Spottie, Fuzzy, Shorty, Big Boy (two of 'em), Puff, and Puddy.

We have around town a Cheeta, a Bear, and a Skeeter Boy.

There is a King, a Queen, a Princess and two Princes.

Tersely named, perhaps by his mother, is "Coch."

Perhaps the most accurate monicker is "Puddles."

These dogs and a heckuva lot more have all been vaccinated against rabies, too.

Moral: It is better to be a sore dog than a mad dog.

miracle... in a nutshell!

Today's good telephone service will be even better tomorrow thanks to the transistor, a tiny electronic marvel that would fit in a nutshell.

The transistor — invented by Bell System scientists — can do the work of a vacuum tube used in telephone, radio and television equipment and many other things a vacuum tube can't do. It is so small and light, yet so strong and reliable, that it has been called the "mighty midget".

A miracle, yes — but only one of many Bell System advances along the road toward more and better telephone service. To bring these new advances and to keep service good and growing requires a fair profit on the money invested in telephone equipment.

Health TOPICS

SLEEP

There is no hard and fast rules to govern the number of hours required for sleeping. Actually the quality of sleep; not the amount, is what counts.

Some persons wake up tired after sleeping eight hours; others are fully refreshed after five. It is generally conceded that a person doing physical labor requires less sleep than one who expends mental effort.

The ability to relax is the secret of restful sleep. Emotional tension contributes to muscular tension. The person who takes his problems of the day and those of tomorrow to bed with him is not able to relax. Instead he mentally wrestles with himself, accomplishing nothing by his staying awake. When he finally falls asleep, he is emotionally tired and sleeps fitfully.

In sleep all actions of the body are slowed down. Breathing is less deep, the pulse is less frequent and the conscious mind is quiet. All muscular systems tend to relax. The process acts much like the recharging of a battery and serves to restore energy.

But if the emotional unit remains "keyed up" there is no relaxation which is the essential factor in rest. A person may sleep and not rest and conversely rest and not sleep. The ability to relax is the agent that must be developed by the person whose goal is sound sleep.

Intervals of sleeplessness will not prove harmful. It is the night after night attacks of insomnia that should be investigated by the physician for these tend to break down the body forces.

Use of sleeping pills to induce sleep is not safe. Habits are formed by repeating the same action over and over again, and persons who use a drug frequently to make them sleep may be developing into addicts and creating a menace to their health. On the other hand, there are some drugs, called depressants, that are of real value when used with discretion under the supervision of a physician. They are recommended when a physical mental ailment calls for enforced rest.
